

Producing quality labour market information: a six-phased approach

1

Specify needs & conduct user research

Identify user groups and their needs.

Conduct user research to refine / narrow user groups and their needs.

Document all features of data, including metadata.

2

Generate labour market information

Determine the product & method of delivery.

Access and analyze the data to generate insights.

Document all features of data, including metadata.

3

Submit for internal review

Working draft is circulated for internal peer review.

4

Submit for external review

Following internal review, draft is shared with external shareholders with substantial expertise in LMI.

5

Publish / Request for feedback

Product is published on the LMiC website and or social media.

Readers are encouraged to provide feedback which is documented and applied to future releases.

6

Update (Ongoing)

Products are updated as new data and information become available.